Academic Year in Review

This year has been one like no other for our non-profit and organizations across the globe. As our students reach the end of the academic year, it is important to pause and focus on the incredible support of community leaders, like you and your organization. The continued investment in our non-profit has allowed the creation of and access to the best in professional development from dozens of organizations, including the United States Senate Committee on Aging and educators from Harvard and M.I.T.

CFTEA prides itself on a high level of customer service as we continually update materials to provide the best experience for your employees. Our ties to local and state colleges as well as nationally recognized continuing education credits provide additional career development opportunities.

Annual Accomplishments

CFTEA received GuideStar's Platinum Seal of Transparency for our important work in the community as well as workforce and career development. Thank you for working with us and helping us reach this impressive goal! A huge congratulations to our board of directors for charting our non-profit course in 2020 and beyond!

We've Got It All

You are the center of our dedicated learning community. Our sole purpose is to provide quality, personalized assistance and education to help others succeed. Questions? We are here to help.

CFTEA provided the foundational program for community workforce development to support diversity and opportunity in banking. This program using ABA materials has been highlighted in the local news media as an outstanding example of community financial institutions collaborating to train, certify and supply a qualified workforce. This program is provided at four adult education locations in Maine and continues to grow national interest as a means of supporting our local financial institutions and ABA.

Representatives from our financial institutions helped to deliver the program's offerings, which includes courses dealing with being a teller, customer services, computer skills and business writing, basic math and cash handling, personal finances, and job search strategies.

2019-2020 Spotlights on Success— What Is Your Story?

A sincere thank you to our students that shared their educational career stories on our Facebook page. We want to recognize their willingness to share and the inspiration they provide to others. Check them out!

Navigating the Future

We are excited to announce that CFTEA is working on the development of our own Learning Management System (LMS)! It is a system that is used around the globe for higher education learning.

This will help students have one place to go for their course information and links, student transcripts will be available, and auto-notifications will be activated to communicate with students on progress. Plus, our tests and quizzes will align within this LMS to provide immediate feedback and remove any more paper tests.

Stay tuned for more information as we look toward beginning our system rollout in Fall 2020.
